

Conversation Board Game: Tell Me Something

Use scraps of paper, M & Ms or markers. Roll a die and move forward. Follow the instructions in the box. This can be a way to start a conversation or teach a specific grammar rule, such as gerunds, which are nouns created by adding -ing to verbs. For example, if you land on you always avoid doing, you could respond with a gerund by saying, "I always avoid washing dishes."
